Ok, so we all know that going to a party whether it be a new year's eve party, prom, or a wedding, turns out to be a fashion show to strut your stuff, which unfortunately includes our skin. We can't get rid of acne in the snap of a finger, but we sure can minimize the appearance! The best way to fake flawless skin is to treat it first, that takes time. For fast, temporary fixes we have created this list. So let's get started!

Blemishes: This might sound odd, but using Visine (yes eye drops) will actually take away redness in your pimples and acne. It will not clear it up, but it will lessen the appearance of it and make it easier to conceal.

To conceal the blemish use a flat makeup brush with a head smaller than the blemish itself. Then lightly dab a layer concealer on top and work the brush in a circular motion, making sure to blending at the edges. BE PATIENT; let the concealer dry before proceeding to put on another layer. The last step is to pat loose powder over the concealer, this will set the concealer. Again, BE PATIENT let the area set before applying other products (such as bronzer).

Acne Scars can be difficult to conceal if the scar is pitted or depressed. In this case we would choose a thick concealer that's a shade lighter than your complexion; use a pointed synthetic brush to fill in the center of the scar without going beyond its edges. If the scar is raised, use your finger to pat on a concealer that matches skin exactly. Wait a few minutes, and then gently press loose powder over the scar a few times with a puff.

I highly recommend using Dermablend or Dermacolor; these products will pretty much hide most of case you have a light skin. For darker skin, use apricot. Create several small dots at the bottom and top of the eye lids. Make sure to blend them well using a cotton swab or your finger. To get the best result, you should blend from the inside corner of the face to the outside corner. Work in layers, applying too much at once may create a caked-on appearance. Dust translucent face powder all over the concealed areas to help keep coverage long-lasting.

Apply a nude-colored eyeshadow all the way from your lash to the brow line. This using a dark eyeliner will draw attention away from the problematic part. This is a good and easy method on how to hide dark circles.
